Dear Mr. Chun:

I am writing this on behalf of Platinum Marketing Group, LLC. It comes with high recommendations to utilize their fuel products. As a former dean of technology at Seattle Community College, and extensive background in the automotive industry, I am familiar with this fuel technology.

Many of our members are grass farmers and cattle ranchers, so one of our primary goals in purchasing the product was to emission reduction. We also found that the product increased our fuel economy in all vehicles types to include, but not limited to, large trucks (both gasoline and diesel); large, medium and small-sized tractors, vans, and small 6-8 cylinder vehicles. While recordkeeping on our farm equipment has been difficult to track thus far, feedback on the trucks and small vehicle group of approximately 100 vehicles was 15-25% emission reduction and an average of 15% fuel economy increase. One of the immediate visual signs of emission reduction is that we noticed is that the air filters of these vehicles look virtually brand new after months of use. We also found no erosion or engine damage with the use of their liquid additive or fuel tabs.

Please be advised that you may experience different results based on the condition of the vehicles, engine size, driver habits, road conditions and weather condition variables.

Texas Small Farmers and Ranchers Association and I can say with all assurance that Platinum Marketing Group, LLC's product is not only helping us meet sustainability standards but they preserve vegetation and greatly reduce harmful green gases, blue carbons and most importantly carcinogens that cause premature deaths.

We highly recommend you start using their products and see the phenomenal results for yourself.

Sincerely,

Wade Ross
